

Michael Fugler Receives Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts (RADA) Certificate on the Queen Mary 2

Perdido Key, FL (PRBuzz) August 20, 2010 -- Michael Fugler completed all required seminars and received a Certificate from RADA, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts on board the Queen Mary 2, sailing from Southampton, England to New York, New York.

Mr. Fugler, said "The Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts (RADA) is the most famous classical acting school in the English-speaking world, and one of the most respected academies in the world. Its alumni include many of the great names of both yesterday and today - John Gielgud, Vivienne Leigh, Anthony Hopkins, Ralph Fiennes, Alan Rickman, Juliet Stevenson, Peter O'Toole and many more. These classes give participants the opportunity under the direction of experts to experience how RADA training allows actors to give their voice power and impact and how their body is a means of communication."

Mr. Fugler continued, "RADA has an unparalleled history of teaching acting and theater-related skills. In this short program participants were given the opportunity to personally experience skills such as, voice exercises, acting exercises and improvisation techniques. By the end of the final session we were afforded an opportunity to act out short scenes from Shakespeare. Participating in the program gives the opportunity to watch tomorrow's stars today and join with them in developing acting skills in drama and speech."

RADA

The name RADA has always been synonymous with teaching the highest possible level of skills to the most talented young actors, designers, directors, stage managers and technicians.

The Royal Academy of Dramatic Art was first established in 1904 and since then has built an outstanding reputation as a world-renowned centre of excellence. We know how important it is, however, to keep the training relevant to the ever-changing industry and we are constantly striving to maintain and improve our courses, by expanding the range and depth of training we offer, by maintaining links with the industries that employ our graduates, by working with exceptional teaching staff, by involving leading figures of international standing as visiting lecturers, directors and designers and by providing the best possible facilities such as our three in-house theatres.

In the Cunard project, small companies of graduate actors perform in plays, and run acting workshops for passengers on the Queen Mary 2 and other Cunard ships.
